About the Speaker

Esther Carrigan serves as Associate Dean and Director of the Medical Sciences Library at the Texas A&M University Libraries. She recently negotiated the acquisition and arranged for the delivery and processing of a rare books collection on veterinary medicine and equine science collection which is receiving state wide and international attention. She is a distinguished member of the Academy of Health Information Professionals of the Medical Library Association. She serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the South Central Academic Medical Libraries Consortium and is currently chair elect of the Veterinary Medical Libraries Section of the Medical Library Association. She is a member of the Executive Committee of the College of Veterinary Medicine and Biomedical Sciences, the Faculty Advisory Committee of the College of Medicine and the Texas A&M Faculty Senate. Her research interests include organizational development and the assessment of library services and collections. Her current collection focus has been veterinary grey literature.
